Thieu Resigns, Blames Nixon, Kissinger

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu resigned tonight in a speech in which he blamed South Vietnam's military disasters on U.S. failure to honor President Richard M. Nixon's written promises of aid.

The resignation opened the way for possible negotiations of a cease-fire with the Communists who have pushed the front lines to within 26 miles of Thieu's Presidential Palace and have massed 100,000 troops for a final assault.

At exactly 8:40 p.m. (8:40 a.m. EDT) Thieu, biting his lip and apparently fighting back tears, said:

"In front of the National Assembly, I announce my resignation as president.

"Goodbye, my friends."

Thieu said he and former President Nixon had agreed "on paper" that the United States would provide all necessary aid to South Vietnam to defend itself if Thieu signed the Jan. 27, 1973, Paris peace agreement.

Thieu said he had been assured of U.S. aid, and it had not been delivered.

"I never thought a man like Mr. (U.S. Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger would deliver our people to such a disastrous fate," Thieu said.

As he delivered his televised speech to the nation, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong closed in on Saigon from three sides. The government earlier today abandoned Xuan Loc, which some persons have called the 1975 Dien Bien Phu.

Fifteen minutes after Thieu began his speech, authorities ordered an 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew—one hour longer than the normal both in the evening and morning—apparently to avoid panic.

Saigon's defense forces were placed on full alert.

Communist troops capture Provincial Capital of Xuan Loc. Story on page 8.

"If the United States had intervened as it should have, we would not be losing province capitals, district capitals," Thieu said.

"And we would not be faced with losing our national capital." Thieu said he would hand power to ailing, 72-year-old vice president Tran Van Huong. But it was expected Huong also would resign.

That would hand the presidency to Senate President Tran Van Lam, a political moderate who might be able to open peace talks with the Viet Cong before Saigon itself is attacked.

Thieu gave no indication whether he would leave Vietnam, but most senior officials said they believed he would seek exile, possibly in the United States.

Political sources who attended meetings with Thieu at his downtown Saigon Independence Palace said the president was "very sad" as he told supporters of his decision to quit.

Massive pressure had been building on Thieu to resign for the past month following his order to abandon the Central Highlands without a fight. After that order, government forces were routed from the northern two-thirds of the nation and Communist troops swept to the very approaches of Saigon.

The 52-year-old president blamed "American pressure" for his decision to step down, but did not say in what way the pressure was applied, according to a source who was present when Thieu spoke.

U.S. Embassy officials said they were taken by complete surprise by Thieu's resignation. An embassy official told UPI only an hour before the resignation that the embassy believed Thieu would stand and fight.

Thieu's replacement, Vice President Huong, is a popular civilian in the Saigon area and a former school teacher who is known as totally honest.

Huong, a former mayor of Saigon and presidential candidate against Thieu in 1967, likely will serve only as acting president until a new administration can be formed, political sources said.

The vice president is so feeble he has had to walk with a cane for the past several years.

"I want to impress upon you the urgency of the current situation," Thieu said. The television speech was filmed at Independence Palace as he spoke to his supporters and other government and military leaders.

Thieu, who had served as South Vietnam's chief executive just 54 days short of 10 years, said when he took power South Vietnam was threatened by a Communist takeover.

There was no sign of panic or nervousness. Most residents were unaware of the fact the government had lengthened the curfew hours.

Thieu began his speech to the nation at 7:45 p.m. Saigon time (7:45 a.m. EDT).

Dressed in a light safari suit and standing at a lectern with two microphones, he was subdued and somber.

"I beg your pardon because I talk to you directly," he said. "But I am giving you a direct announcement."

He said the Communist strategy by 1972 "was extremely clever and unexpected on our part."

"The idea was to bring us to negotiations and if they could not win a political victory then they would do everything they could to make a military victory."

"I argued with the Americans. I told them, 'You are selling out South Vietnam to the Communists (by signing the Paris agreements of Jan. 27, 1973),' but the American officials said, 'We demand you sign this agreement.'"

Thieu said he argued with the Americans. "I rejected that plan. I said we won't go along with it."

"I don't go along with any agreement with the Communists in any form whatsoever," Thieu said.

"The North Vietnamese will not agree to our constitution, our laws, in making a solution of what is to be done here in South Vietnam."

"This has been shown. Russians, Chinese, Americans, even (U.S. Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger have not been able to work it out."

"If only the American government gives us support, we can stand off the North Vietnamese Communists and there is nothing to worry about."

Ford Summons Henry to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at the White House today to discuss the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The meeting lasted 65 minutes, according to a White House spokesman. There was no immediate word on exactly what the two men talked about and the White House did not issue an official statement.

A State Department spokesman said the United States was informed about Thieu's intentions to resign "shortly before" he made the announcement in a nationwide speech to his South Vietnamese countrymen.

One presidential aide stressed that the United States had diplomatic relations with the South Vietnamese government and not with Thieu personally.

"The President and the United States deal with the duly constituted government of South Vietnam," the aide said. "The occupant of the office of the president of South Vietnam is not the significant factor."

"The U.S. government will continue as before dealing with the government in Saigon."

Kissinger arrived at the White House at 9:18 a.m. EDT, carrying a sheaf of papers under his left arm. He was preceded by his Secret Service agent, Walter Bonney.

The secretary smiled at reporters awaiting his arrival. But when he was asked if he had anything to say, he shook his head no.

Asked if he would have a comment after meeting with Ford, Kissinger replied "maybe Walter will have something to say later" and nodded his head toward the Secret Service agent.

He then entered the White House.

In his resignation speech, Thieu was critical of what he said was the United States' failure to live up to its commitments to South Vietnam. He was especially harsh on Kissinger, who won the Nobel Peace Prize for his effort in negotiating the Paris peace accords.

"I never thought a man like Mr. Kissinger would deliver our people to such a disastrous fate," Thieu said in his Saigon speech.

Kissinger was scheduled to appear later in the day before a congressional committee studying humanitarian aid to South Vietnam.

Ford has scheduled only a light day of activity leading up to a nationally televised interview tonight, but the news of Thieu's resignation was liable to change his schedule.

After spending Friday and Saturday helping launch national celebrations of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution in historic Concord and Lexington, Mass., Ford relaxed Sunday by playing golf.

Ford scheduled several major appearances this week, starting tonight with a one-hour live interview with three CBS correspondents. He will leave Wednesday for a day-long visit to New Orleans and will speak Friday at the Yale University Law School, where he received his law degree in 1941.

Meanwhile, Congress is likely to pass a bill this week to give Vietnam additional humanitarian assistance — but as for military aid, even President Ford's friends consider it a lost cause.

It won't stop a small group of senators, led by Democrat Sam Nunn of Georgia and Republicans Robert Taft of Ohio and Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma, from trying to get the Senate to pass $534 million in military aid—which the Pentagon feels is the minimum to stabilize the fighting in Vietnam.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee has recommended $327 million—$177 million for humanitarian aid and the rest for evacuation and refugee help.

Evacuation May Be In Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Indications are growing that a mass evacuation from Vietnam is being prepared.

Although Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield thinks enough money is available, the Senate begins today to decide whether to approve an additional $200 million for evacuation. It passed the Foreign Relations Committee Friday by a 14-3 vote.

The Pentagon reported Sunday that Adm. Noel Gayler, U.S. commander in chief in the Pacific, made a secret flying visit to Saigon Thursday, returning to his headquarters in Honolulu Saturday. The Pentagon would not comment on the trip, but Gayler directed evacuation of Americans from Cambodia last week, following a similar unannounced trip.

After Gayler's return, all nine carriers and amphibious vessels assigned to the Navy's 7th Fleet had left port and were in the South China Sea.

According to Pentagon sources, one of the aircraft carriers, the Hancock, had been converted into a vessel of mercy, with large passenger-carrying helicopters replacing the jet fighter planes. They said a similar conversion probably had been carried out for the Midway. The Okinawa is already a helicopter carrier.

Each carrier was accompanied by destroyers. The two other carriers, the Coral Sea and the Enterprise, would keep their fighter jets to protect the helicopters, the sources said.

The Saigon airport has continued to operate with a stepped-up evacuation program. At Clark Air Base in the Philippines, U.S. Air Force planes arrived steadily, carrying both Americans and Vietnamese. Civilian charter planes left with some of them for the United States.

As each plane landed, passengers were told, "What you say may be held against Americans remaining in Vietnam."

Most of those arriving Sunday were American dependents, but about 500 were Vietnamese without adequate papers to get to the United States. Spokesmen said Clark was prepared to accommodate up to 5,000 refugees at a time.

Estimates in Washington have ranged up to 200,000 Vietnamese who would have to be evacuated, mainly because they had been linked to Americans. State Department officials said that figure was theoretical.

Officials said the United States started making informal contacts with other nations in the area as much as six years ago to see if they would take refugees if Saigon collapsed.

Re-Enactment of Constitution Signing

KINGSTON

All the elements, the enthusiasm and endorsement that the people of Kingston could muster for the re-enactment of the 1777 patriot's organization of a temporary New York State government, were evident Sunday afternoon on the court house steps on Wall Street.

While the Old Dutch Church bells pealed just as they did nearly two centuries ago, there was dancing in the streets... strains of "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and, the voices of young stockaders reciting excerpts from the state's first constitution.

Gathering round the planks hastily placed on wooden barrels, straddling the steps, just as the 1777 patriots did, Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig applauded the Stockade Colonial Dance Group crying, "Beautiful, beautiful."

Edward Ford, president of Friends of Historic Kingston, told of his organization's dedication to the preservation of the historic and architectural treasures in the city.

And, Richard Griggs, vice president of the Ulster County Bar association, indicated his appreciation of the young people's year around interest in preparing for the nation's and the county's bicentennial celebration.

Reflecting on the past, there were those that remembered that men who were instrumental in drafting the first state constitution were thought by some to be "radical... There were those who recalled that the noise and odor of the prisoners in the basement of the court house in 1777 was cause for comment.

Clapping of hands accompanied the singing and dancing with most onlookers participating. There was the singing of the 20th century's "God Bless America." There was the solemnness of the Stockaders' delivery of things past.

Howard rust provided accompanying music and led the dancing in the street.

Mayor Koenig noted and praised the efforts of the 600 young people in the county who who are active in the bicentennial celebration.

State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.) recounted some of the history of the Dutch settlers and Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st Dist.) suggested that our country's founding fathers "did not always see democracy in quite the same way we see it today."

"But their instincts were good and the quality of the political discourses they have left us as a legacy is such that we can continue to draw on their wisdom even today with tremendous profit," he said.

Hinchey felt that "although they were men of their own time, with the natural limitations of their own class interests, they were also gifted men, with a genius for political discussion, unafraid to entertain a wide range of arguments, whether moderate or at one dangerous extreme or the other."

"This was their great strength, their great virtue," Hinchey said, suggesting that "despite their differences they knew how to sit down and reason together. It was to this happy ability that we are indebted for the strength of our American Constitution as well as that of our state government," he said.

"This is a great lesson for all of us," Hinchey said, "no matter of which political party."

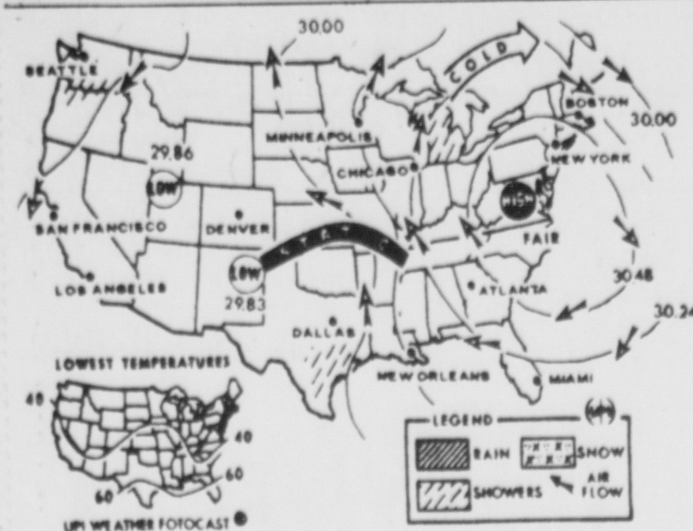

AND THERE WAS DANCING IN THE STREETS

Sun Day Fair . . . A Success

NEW PALTZ A steady stream of visitors contributed greatly to making Ulster County Environmental Management Council's Sun Day Fair at State University College at New Paltz Sunday a great success.

There was something for everyone—Boy and Girl Scout exhibits for the youngsters, high school environmental projects, cycling and recycling exhibits.

Fair goers were given opportunity to participate in learning how to hook a hug with scrap cloth...give their support to "Saving the Whale"...Showing Concern for the Shawangunks" and "Saving Black Creek."

Thirty-five exhibit booths illustrated organic gardening, solar heating, distilling salt water to fresh, organic waste treatment and the use of wood as an economical and ecological fuel. There were messages...774-h isn't just for cows and cooking...it deals with such things as bike safety, mechanics, career exploration. You fill a space 9x9x13 with solid waste in one year, 77 the environmental task force advised. 377mother earth is very ill. let's try to cure her busing clean, safe energy and as little as possible." Kingston Girl Scout Troop 107 suggested.

More than 1,000 sycamores

(tulip trees) were given to fair visitors, many exhibitors showed slides and films and some provided miscellaneous information such as the fact that the greatest snowfall in Ulster County occurred in 1966-67 when 114.5 inches fell. The least was in 1912-13 with a mere 16 inches.

Schermerhorn Wants ERA Safeguard

By Lynn Mulvaney

KINGSTON With the Equal Rights Amendment coming down to the wire in New York State and a public referendum in view if it passes the State Legislature, State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th Dist.) told members of Temple Emanuel in Kingston, Sunday that if the law would provide that "nothing be taken away from women which they now have," he would support it.

Specifically, Schermerhorn wants an amendment to the ERA which would safeguard women's rights to social security and allow them to make their own decision as to whether they want to bear arms for their country.

"The Equal Rights Amendment doesn't enrich women's rights, it deprives them of their rights," Schermerhorn suggested.

"I don't want my four daughters drafted. I think women should make their own decision whether they want to bear arms," he contended.

A man in the audience of Temple Brotherhood asked, "Would you give a woman a combat role if she wanted it?" "Sure," Schermerhorn replied. "I don't care if women go to the front lines 10 deep. But, I want women to have their choice," he said.

Schermerhorn intimated that he prefers women to continue to enjoy some of the benefits that are theirs now.

He believes that women who choose to assume the role of a homemaker should be allowed to do so and still enjoy the protection of social security.

For women who are separated, widowed or divorced, he feels it is fine if they can support their children but, he is against depriving the non-working mother.

"The support of a child is the responsibility of the wage earner," he said, "regardless if it is a man or a woman." If the father is the wage earner, it is his responsibility. If the mother is, it is hers.

Again emphasizing that he wants to take nothing away from women, but only to support the concept of the equal rights amendment Schermerhorn urged that the bill be passed with the U.S. Sen. Ervin amendment which would allow women to continue to receive social security benefits and allow them a freedom of choice as to duty in the armed forces. Capsulizing some of his points, the senator suggested that:

- "I am not against women. I am only trying to protect the non-professional mother who makes just as great a contribution to society as the professional working woman."

- "Diapers an oatmeal don't enslave a woman."

- "It would be demeaning for me to collect alimony from my wife."

- "The Equal Rights Amendment of 1974 gives equal opportunity to everyone."
- "I would put child support and alimony on the same basis. Let those who can best support, do it."

Schermerhorn said he isn't concerned about ERA arguments regarding sleeping quarters in the armed forces of college dorms. These are weak arguments, he suggested, adding that he has "no hangups on a man walking into a ladies' rest room."

All America's Voice

When the government controls an instrument of communication there is always a danger that it will be used to present only the official government viewpoint. This is currently exemplified by the Voice of America's treatment of possible American evacuations from Vietnam.

In this instance the Voice of America has in effect become the voice of part of America. This has resulted from a policy limiting VOA broadcasts on this subject to official government statements or congressional actions.

The practical consequences of this policy are evident in what has been done in specific instances. For example, while the President's foreign policy speech was carried by the Voice of America, comments by distinguished members of the United States Senate were barred. One report quoting Sen. Henry M. Jackson on the evacuation issue was withheld. The same fate met a report on Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield's views — a report of which a VOA official said that it was "deemed not usable."

One point can be made in partial extenuation of this policy limiting comment on a touchy subject. The State Department seems greatly concerned lest remarks of congressional leaders or others be misinterpreted, given the extreme sensitivity of the evacuation issue. This must be taken into consideration.

It strikes us, however, that the danger of misinterpretation probably is being exaggerated. There is little reason to suppose that members of Congress, particularly men of the stature of Jackson and Mansfield, would offer inflammatory views which might further complicate a delicate situation.

The danger that what is said on Voice of America broadcasts might have such an effect must be weighed against the danger of overstepping the line between news and propaganda. The word cannot be avoided: when the administration so unmistakably seeks to manage VOA broadcasts, limiting them to official statements, what we have is propaganda. That is so however benign the intentions may be.

We quote, with approval, a remark attributed to a Voice of America official who has had a part in broadcasts dealing with Vietnam: "A lot of people feel there is an obligation here to reflect all segments of society, not just the policy of the government."

Berry's World

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—It looks suspiciously as if some distinguished members of Congress may have sticky fingers.

In late 1973, 16 rare aluminum pennies were shown around Capitol Hill. Only two of them have been returned. The rest have mysteriously disappeared.

The missing 14 coins, according to experts, are worth thousands of dollars.

This has created an awkward predicament for the U.S. Mint, which has tried ever so delicately to retrieve the rare pennies from the Senate and House banking committees. These are the same committees, you see, which have jurisdiction over the Mint.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The Case of the Missing Pennies

After repeated efforts had failed to recover the coins, the Mint's frustrated director, Mrs. Mary Brooks, considered turning the matter over to the Secret Service.

But she thought better of the idea. She was reluctant, understandably, to instigate an investigation of the committees that oversee her own operations.

The strange case of the missing pennies goes back to the copper shortage. To save copper, the moneymakers thought maybe they should mint pennies from aluminum.

This required special legislation, which the Senate and House Banking committees were considering. Mrs. Brooks passed out 16 aluminum prototypes to the committee members, so they could see what the proposed aluminum pennies would look like. That's the last she saw of all but two of the sample coins.

Meanwhile, copper prices began to drop and the aluminum penny idea was abandoned. The aluminum prototypes, accordingly, were sent to the Philadelphia mint to be melted down — that is, except for the still held by the sticky-fingered legislators.

Which committee members kept the coins? Mrs. Brooks confessed to us that she has no idea. Spokesmen for both banking committees assured us they are trying to find out.

But the director of the Mint still doesn't want to offend her sweetly. "The coins will show up eventually, I'm sure of that."

Footnote: It is illegal, incidentally, for anyone to own coin patterns struck after 1916. This doesn't diminish the under-the-table value, however, of the 14 aluminum pennies.

WATCH ON WASTE: The Senate, whose members talk a lot about economy, are preparing quietly to vote another $40 million for themselves to hire more staff help.

If the past is prologue, many of the new staff members would wind up at election time doing political work for their senatorial patrons.

The argument is that the senior senators wind up with most of the available employees. Sen. James Eastland, D.-Miss., the Judiciary chairman, controls a budget, for example, of almost $5 million. Sen. Warren Magnuson, D.-Wash., the Commerce chairman, has $3.2 million to spend. And Sen. Harrison Williams, D.-N.J., the Labor chairman, isn't far behind with a $2.8 million budget.

Their committee payrolls are fat in contrast with such new senators as Gary Hart, D.-Colo., John Glenn, D.-Ohio, and Jake Garn, R.-Utah, who scarcely have enough clerical help to keep up with their mail.

The extra $40 million, it is argued, would give the junior senators a break. But it is more likely that the new recruits would merely swell the political force on Capitol Hill.

The $40 million would permit the hiring of more than 1,000 new staff members. But they would need space to work and Capitol Hill is already overcrowded. Still more money would have to be appropriated, therefore, to provide additional facilities.

We have had access, meanwhile, to a secret tally of the senators' payrolls. This shows many senators aren't using the funds already available to them.

Sen. William Scott, R.-Va., for one, has raised a howl for more staff members to help him with his committee work. Yet he left almost $190,000 of his "clerk hire" money unspent last year.

Sen. Robert Stafford, R.-Vt., also wants more staff help, yet he didn't spend $143,000 that was available for this purpose last year. Sen. James Pearson, R.-Kan., another advocate of more staff money, left $134,000 in the till.

Here are others who want more money but didn't spend what they had: Sens. Edward Brooke, R.-Mass., $86,400 left over; Clifford Case, R.-N.J., $120,000 unspent; Carl Curtis, R.-Neb., $46,500; Hiram Fong, R.-Hawaii, $100,000; Cliff Hansen, R.-Wyo., $80,000; Lee Metcalf, D.-Mont., $66,000; William Roth, R.-Del., $51,000; Robert Taft, R.-Ohio, $58,000 and John Tower, R.-Tex., $78,000.

Congress would serve the public better by cutting down, not building up the payroll in Washington.

WITCH HUNT: After we exposed drug trafficking by Paraguayan officials, the military government of dictator Alfredo Stroessner began a witch hunt for our sources in Paraguay.

We have now learned that they arrested a newsman, Roberto Thompson, and held him illegally for three months simply on suspicion. But finally, Stroessner's secret police realized they had blundered and Thompson was released.

Where There's Smoke, There's Fire!

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Tucked into President Ford's speech to Congress, and ignored in the emotional controversy over Vietnam, was a carefully worded warning that secret operations of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) must be protected from "altered" congressional oversight that threatens "essential secrets."

Mr. Ford's purpose: repeal of an oversight provision stuck into a new law last December. That provision requires the President to notify "appropriate committees" including the notoriously leaky Senate Foreign Relations and House International Relations Committees, before approving any covert CIA operation abroad. Such wide distribution of this country's most secret operations "makes the protection of vital information very, very difficult," Mr. Ford said.

This presidential concern comes not a moment too soon for the few friends of the CIA still willing to buck the political lynch-mob psychology which began with disclosures about the CIA's clandestine work in Chile and illegal spying on American citizens.

Indeed, the apparent reluctance of both the White House and embattled CIA director William Colby to shout their fears about destruction of the agency has infuriated serious-minded intelligence experts. "For the life of me," one such expert told us, "I cannot figure out why President Ford and Colby have handled this 'assassination' issue so ineptly."

Asking anonymity, this uniquely well-informed official continued: "As far as I know the CIA never killed any foreign leaders. Plotting may be something else again, but if every thought a man had were translated automatically into action, there would be few of us out of jail or still alive. Would you like to be hung for every nasty fantasy in which you indulged? But assassination, no sir, and I defy anyone to prove differently."

But when the charge of possible CIA assassinations of foreign leaders surfaced, the instinctive White House reaction was to hand that hot issue to the presidential commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. That only gave new wings to rumors that CIA may, indeed, have been executioner at high levels.

Colby, a straight arrow without guile, is desperately trying to hold back the floodgates by offering his full cooperation to the separate, year-long probes about to start in the Senate and House. Intimates say that when the assassination charge first came up, he refused categorical denials on grounds that these probes might turn up shreds of evidence — unknown to him — tending to link CIA with summit murders.

Colby's policy is passionately debated by him and top-level CIA officials with their own conflicting views. Colby contends that in today's rancid political climate, his job is to reveal almost everything to any duly-constituted congressional committee and claim executive privilege only in extraordinary cases.

Some former intelligence officials believe he has no alternative. Within the agency itself, one group of officials has pressed for total exposure of everything the agency has ever done and for prosecution of officials who broke laws.

But another faction violently disagrees. Their thesis: almost everything the CIA has done was under direct orders from a President of the United States. Yet the agency is now asked to take the rap for extra-legal activity. So, take the heat — but tell nothing that could compromise the CIA's daily routine.

In fact, daily routine is already compromised to a point that the agency is now engaging in a bare handful of covert "operations" abroad, none particularly sensitive. Moreover, exchange deals with foreign intelligence agencies are drying up and U.S. businessmen, acting for years as invaluable informants and CIA fronts, have become "impassioned" in breaking off all CIA contacts.

Also evaporating are the highly useful deals by which a foreign nation's intelligence service does field work for the CIA. When one such foreign service demanded a signed letter from the CIA that a particular operation would never surface, the agency could not give such assurance, the operation was aborted.

Colby is well aware of criticism against his policy of total cooperation with the multitude of investigators. His aim is to avoid an "adversary relationship" with congressional probes, depending on their self-control to preserve national security. But critics fear that as the House and Senate probes get up steam, the penchant for leaking long-buried secrets extremely harmful to U.S. foreign policy will prove irresistible.

The President's signal that he intends to tighten the new scatter-gun oversight role of Congress serves as a somber warning to the two investigating committees. If their 21 members cannot keep the CIA's past and present secrets, Congress will not have a long-range oversight role. The CIA will have died an unnatural death.

Crooked Fingers in the Pie

Some of the younger voters think that the Republican Party has a lock on crime. This is not only untrue, it amounts to a base canard on the Democratic Party, which, if we excuse a few lapses, steals adroitly and can sometimes convince the voter they're doing him a favor.

Boss Pendergast of Missouri became so rich selling cement that he seemed ashamed to accept a salary. Boss Crump of Tennessee wouldn't let a man run for dog catcher without a personal visit and a contribution to the party.

The beloved boss of Boston, Jim Curley, ran for mayor from a cell in Danbury prison. He won, of course. Boss Curry of Tammany in New York encouraged everybody, including cops, to steal, provided that some of the heavy gold filtered upward.

Boss Hague of Jersey City "requested" all Hudson County employees to contribute three percent of their annual salaries to "the campaign fund" every year. If (as in my father's case) an employee didn't have the three percent, Hague opened a loan office over the Majestic Theatre, across the street from City Hall.

Take my word for it, few Republicans are good crooks. When Ulysses Grant was President, some buddies tried to corner the gold market. They were caught; he was disgraced. Harding had his Teapot Dome scandal, but he was so busy fondling pretty young girls in the White House closets that I doubt that Interior Secretary Albert Fall told him how much money could be made selling Navy oil leases to a guy like Harry Sinclair.

And yet, when the Democrats are caught with their hairy paws in the public till, it always amounts to a stampede of mice. They run; they hide; they squeal on each other; in court they sound like men who majored in vice and minored in perjury.

In the Great Depression, Chile Acuna worked for the Democratic politicians and the police department of New York. He was a little Latin with an inventive mind. Cops, he found, were living off prostitutes. The men of the vice squad were not pigs; they only took half of whatever the girl earned.

Acuna had a better idea. Prostitutes age faster than a dollar bill in a hotel with room service. Why not, he suggested, raid the homes of the prettiest young women, force them to undress and he, Chile Acuna, would hop into bed for a photograph.

The honest girl would be threatened by police with arrest and conviction as a public prostitute. Good idea. It worked. The cops raided apartments all over New York, threatened arrest, and got fresh money. If the girl protested her innocence, they took her to jail, to court, and had her convicted.

This also led to new recruits in prostitution. Democratic Tammany Hall looked upon Acuna as a saint from Santiago until he was exposed by Judge Samuel Seabury. Scores of women pointed the finger at an array of dignified policemen and they lock-stepped off to prison.

Higher up, Judge Seabury wanted to know why the Democratic Party kept electing a big chowderhead like Thomas Farley as sheriff. Farley wouldn't know how to arrest a cough. His salary was $6,500 a year, but bank deposits depicted him as a world champion saver.

In one institution, he had $93,876.76. Farley was "taking" from so many political and police sources that he was known to forget to ask for an overdue payment. Seabury put him on the witness stand:

Q. Where did you get this money? A. A big tin box at home. Q. The magic box? A. Wonderful box. Q. Now, when you wanted to put an extra $50,000 in the bank, all you had to do was rub the golden lock on this box, like Aladdin and his lamp, and the money would appear?

Farley feared that this character Aladdin might be a prosecution witness, so he confined himself to a wise smile. Seabury looked up at the court. "The witness is the leader of the 12th ward. So far, on his $6,500 salary, we have traced $360,660 in his name."

The following day, the sheriff's three top aides, Flaherty, Curran and Marinelli, disappeared. Religious types, all three. They may have sailed for Rome — this is only a conjecture — to check out St. Peter's Basilica for a Poor Box.

Is isn't for nothing that the Democrats and Republicans refer to themselves as "parties."

Chris Wins Match While Billie Fumes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Ponytailed, machine-like Chris Evert had just won the richest women's tournament in tennis on national television Sunday, but it was her opponent who was getting all the attention afterward.

Billie Jean King was steaming.

"This is the angriest I have ever been in my life over a tennis match," Mrs. King said, clenching her fists. "As far as I'm concerned, I got screwed out of the match."

Mrs. King's attack was not aimed at Miss Evert, who took the $50,000 first prize in the L'Eggs World Series of Women's Tennis and pushed her earnings for the year to $183,450. It was aimed at young linesman Larry Eichenbaum.

Mrs. King was leading 6-5 in the third and final set and seemingly had her game in control when Miss Evert returned a serve with a casual lob that seemed out of bounds. Umpire Jason Morton awarded the point to Miss Evert.

"He signaled out, Jason. I saw it," Mrs. King screamed, pointing at Eichenbaum. The linesman said Mrs. King was mistaken. Morton upheld the decision.

"He put his arm out and I quit. The guy just didn't have enough guts to say if he put his arm out or not," she said. "I would just kill him if I saw him. I'd wring his neck, I'm that angry."

Miss Evert went on to even the match at 6-6, then easily defeated the visibly upset Mrs. King 5-2 in the tiebreaker for a 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 victory.

"In the tiebreaker, she really didn't play like Billie Jean King," Miss Evert said. "She didn't have that spark in her eyes."

Morton defended his linesman following the match and indicated he had little sympathy for Mrs. King's position. "She's got no call to be in a tizzy," he said.

It was not a total loss for Mrs. King. She took home $25,000 for finishing runnerup in the four-woman tournament, the largest check she has ever won outside of her celebrated match in the Astrodome with tennis hustler Bobby Riggs.

Evonne Goolagong claimed third place money — $15,000 — in defeating Russia's Olga Morozova, 6-4, 6-0, earlier.

A Win for Chris

A determined Chris Evert defeated Billie Jean King in sudden death play 5-2 Sunday in the Legg's World Series of Women's Tennis Championship match at Lakeway World of Tennis courts outside Austin. (UPI)

SPORTS / TODAY

Sandra Was Just 'Good Enough'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Sandra Palmer, a cute little Texan who turned professional in 1964, believes experience is the best teacher. "I'm very conscientious because I love the game of golf so much," she said, "but I've learned that you can't be a perfectionist out there."

Miss Palmer wasn't exactly a perfectionist in the final round of the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle LPGA Championship Sunday but she was good enough.

After three straight 70s, she turned in a one-over-par 73 and that was enough to hold off Kathy McMullen and score a one-shot triumph in the richest event in women's golfing history.

"I've learned a lot in 10 years," said Miss Palmer. "My swing is a lot more sound now and I can play under pressure and do well. I accept the good with the bad and I just play one day at a time."

"I want so much to be a good golfer and I feel I'm just realizing my potential. It's very difficult to come out of the tour out of college and knock 'em dead."

Miss Palmer's wire-to-wire victory was worth $32,000 in first prize money and an $8,000 new Chrysler. In addition, she earned three $1,000 checks for leading the tournament on each of the first three days.

"I came here two weeks early and played at least nine holes every day," said the 34-year-old former North Texas State cheerleader and homecoming queen.

"This course more than any we play requires you have local knowledge. It takes tremendous concentration and the one thing that enabled me to win here was my concentration."

"As you get older, you tend to forget all those things that distract you."

McGee beat Wally

Miss Palmer's 283 total was six strokes better than last year's winning score of 289 over the testing Mission Hills Country Club course.

Miss McMullen, 25, who is looking for her first win in her sixth tour year, said she was "not too disappointed" at finishing runner-up.

"I wasn't consistent and Sandra, who cost herself a shot at the tournament title by taking a double bogey on the difficult par three, 158-yard 14th hole where she hit her tee shot into the water."

In notching tour triumph No. 13—since 1970—Miss Palmer pointed out she attempted not to think about the $32,000 first prize money.

"I just tried to play golf and not picture the money," she said. "But it's very difficult when you lead all the way like I did. It's a lot different playing on Thursday than it is on Sunday."

In Pensacola, It Was McGee

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Jerry McGee, like Lee Elder, won his first pro golf title here in Pensacola. But McGee accepts the fact that his victory won't have near the impact.

"No one could have wanted to win more than I did," said McGee. "I don't know of any other winner who had to wait eight years. But it had to mean more to Lee last year. After all, that was a historic moment for golf, his becoming the first black to earn a Masters invitation."

"Financially, it had to mean much more to Lee than it will for me. But, I'm happy I finally won. It's been a long time coming."

McGee beat Wally

Armstrong by two strokes and his close friend Bruce Crampton, Miller Barber and Dwight Nevil by three when he posted a 13-under-par 271 in the Pensacola Open.

But there was a time in Sunday's final round when the 31-year-old McGee had serious doubts.

"I thought my dream was gone," said McGee as he relived the nightmare of a double bogey at Sunday's fourth hole where he had to sink a 14-foot putt to "save a six."

"When I found myself at 3 over (and two strokes off Armstrong's lead) for the day after nine holes, I must admit I was very discouraged," he said. "I tried to regain my composure, at least as much as possible."

He regained it very well, running off three straight birdies to battle back into a tie, then taking the lead for keeps with another birdie on the 70th hole of the tournament.

"My biggest moment was when I walked down the closing fairway and saw I had a two-stroke lead over Wally," said McGee. "You can't believe how I felt. There are a lot of hours in eight years, but the four or so out there today made up for all of them."

McGee's victory marked the fourth straight week and the fifth time in six weeks that an Ohio State alumnus has won.

A Good Night's Sleep

By The UPI

Yogi Berra says that hitting "is the fun part of baseball" but that relief pitching "is what gives a manager a good night's sleep."

Yogi may have had his first "good night's sleep" of the season Sunday after making the right bullpen moves in the New York Mets' 8-6 and 4-3 victories over the Chicago Cubs. The losses ended the Cubs' seven-game winning streak while the wins lifted the Mets out of the National League's Eastern Division cellar.

"It's nice to know that I can make a right move once in a while," said Berra, referring to the fact that he had gone to his bullpen in seven of the Mets' previous eight games with disastrous results.

But in Sunday's doubleheader, reliever Bob Apodaca saved the opener with 1 2-3 innings of hitless relief and Rick Baldwin survived a three-run Chicago rally to nail down the victory in the nightcap.

Relief pitching may be the key to the Mets' division title hopes this season because they surrendered seven bullpen Tug McGraw to obtain Del Unser and two other players from the Philadelphia Phillies. Until Sunday, calling in Met relievers was the equivalent of asking a fireman to throw a 100-pound barrel of gasoline on a fire.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0, the San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3 in 13 innings, the Houston Astros downed the Cincinnati Reds 7-6 after a 5-3 loss, and the Atlanta Braves topped the San Diego Padres 4-3 in other National League games. Philadelphia at Montreal was rained out.

The Mets scored seven runs in the first two innings of their opener with the help of key hits by Wayne Garrett, Ed Kranepool, Unser and Rusty Staub. Jon Matlack was relieved in the eighth after yielding six runs and 11 hits and Apodaca came through with the Met bullpen's first save of the year.

Baldwin, pitching in relief of Randy Tate, was tagged for three runs in the ninth inning of the second game but Yogi stayed with him and the 21-year old left-hander closed out the contest. Jerry Grote had three of the Mets' eight hits in the second game, including a homer.

Pirates 5, Cardinals 0
Ken Brett allowed four hits in six innings and hit his 10th career homer for the Pirates, with Dave Giusti turning in three innings of two-hit relief. Rich Hebner's two-run triple climaxed a four-run Pittsburgh rally in the second inning which started with Richie Zisk's single and was aided by pitcher John Denny's error.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3
Ed Goodson's bases-filled walk off Geoff Zahn forced in the tie-breaking run in the 13th inning and Chris Speier followed with a two-run single to clinch the victory for reliever Randy Moffitt. Ron Cey hit his third homer of the season on for the Dodgers who have drawn 289,276 fans in their first seven home games.

Reds 5-6, Astros 3-7
Pete Rose hit a two-run homer in the ninth to win the first game for the Reds with reliever Clay Carroll picking up his third victory. Cesar Cedeno homered for the Astros. Jose Cruz and Milt May drove in a total of five runs for the Astros in the second game, offsetting five RBIs by Joe Morgan. The Reds had a two-run homer in the fifth and a three-run homer with two out in the ninth.

Braves 4, Padres 3
Darrell Evans' two-run homer with Marty Perez on base in the ninth inning lifted the Braves to their victory. Tom House, who pitched one inning in relief of Phil Niekro, was the winner while Rick Fellers suffered his second straight loss.

Yankees 7, Tigers 1
Ron Blomberg's three-run homer capped a six-run seventh inning that enabled the Yankees to defeat Detroit. Bobby Bonds also homered for New York while left-hander Rudy May pitched a three-hit shutout.

Angels 8, White Sox 4
Nolan Ryan tossed a five-hitter and survived nine walks to record his fourth consecutive victory in California's triumph over the White Sox. The Angels supported Ryan with 10 hits, including three apiece by Dave Chalk and Bruce Bochte. Ken Henderson and Jorge Orta had two-run homers for Chicago.

Red Sox 10, Orioles 2
Luis Tiant had a four-hitter and Boston benefitted from 11 walks to rout Baltimore. Bernie Carbo drove in two runs and scored three to spark the Red Sox' attack. Lee May and Bobby Grich homered for the Orioles.

Indians 7, Brewers 4
Tom McCraw and Rico Carty each hit two-run homers to pace Cleveland over Milwaukee. Reliever Dave LaRoche also contributed to the victory by striking out two batters with the bases loaded after the Brewers had scored three runs in the eighth inning.

'No Choke' By Big E

By United Press International

Despite all the power and talent Elvin Hayes commands with his strong 6-foot 9 body and deadly shooting touch, the Washington Bullets' center-forward has had to live with the suspicion that he may be guilty of the greatest sin an athlete can commit: choking in the big games.

A poor second half performance by Hayes in Friday's loss to the Buffalo Braves recalled his previous problems in playoff action. Last year, for example, he asked Coach K.C. Jones to take him out for a prolonged rest in the seventh game of an opening round series against the New York Knicks. With Hayes on the bench, the Knicks won easily.

But Hayes showed signs of dispelling that reputation Sunday with a clutch 46-point performance that led the Bullets to a 97-93 victory on their home court and gave them a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series against the Braves.

"I didn't do the things I should have Friday and I decided to make this game different," Hayes said. "I started to hold back when I got in foul trouble Friday. This time, I figured these games are for the money and you've got to put it all out."

Losing coach Jack Ramsay conceded that Hayes can be expected to score a heap of points but summarized: "It wasn't that. We killed ourselves with mistakes. I hope we learned something from them."

Bob McAdoo's 50 points had evened the series Friday but the NBA's MVP was outgunned Sunday. Hayes outscored McAdoo in all but one quarter of the closely fought opener of a nationally televised doubleheader and set a personal playoff record for point production. McAdoo had 34 points but in the first half only four of his 46 points came on field goals as he hit 2-of-13 shots. In the same two periods, Hayes hit 11-for-13 and had 23 points to put the Bullets ahead 42-39.

McAdoo's 13-point performance in the third period helped regain the lead for Buffalo and the Braves led by eight points early in the final quarter. Washington tied it 89-89 but Buffalo mistakes proved decisive. Nick Weatherspoon hit the go-ahead bucket for Washington and Buffalo failed to get the ball inbound within the required five seconds.

Phil Chenier, 1-for-11 in the first half, scored to push Washington's lead to four points. McAdoo fouled Hayes in the backcourt for a free throw to make it 94-89 and when a Buffalo surge cut the lead to a point with five seconds left, Wes Unseld wrestled down a rebound and scored the clincher.

In the only other game Sunday, the Chicago Bulls took a 3-2 lead in their series against the Kansas City-Omaha Kings with a 104-77 rout in Chicago.

Bob Love scored 30 points and Tom Boerwinkle led both teams in rebounding as the Bulls led from start to finish. Boerwinkle's 19 rebounds helped Chicago take a 55-43 rebounding edge that effectively stopped the Kings' fast break.

Chicago is at Kansas City Tuesday night while Boston and Houston get back into action that night in a nationally televised game in Houston. The Celtics, who had the best record in the NBA during the regular season, will be looking for their third victory against one loss. Neither team has lost on its home court.

Seattle will also be at Golden State Tuesday night, with each team in that series owning two victories.

Buffalo hosts Washington in their sixth game Wednesday night.

Royals, A's . . . Solid

By The UPI

Those critics who were quick to write off the Kansas City Royals and Oakland A's for lack of pitching before the season began are looking pretty red-faced at the moment.

In the pre-season outlook, the Royals were dismissed as serious contenders in the American League West because of lack of pitching depth while the defending champion A's were expected to have much difficulty in repeating as champs for the same reason.

So far, however, the early success of both clubs can be directly attributed to solid pitching. Neither club is hitting very well, yet the Royals are off to a 9-2 start and the A's are 8-4 because some of their lesser-known pitchers have been doing Sandy Koufax impersonations.

That was the case again Sunday when the Royals blanked the Texas Rangers 2-0 behind Al Fitzmorris and the A's swept a doubleheader from Minnesota, 4-1 and 5-1, on the strong arm of Glenn Abbott, Dave Hamilton and Jim Todd.

Fitzmorris, a 29-year-old right-hander who was 13-6 a year ago, allowed only six hits in gaining his third win without a loss. His effort was the first shutout turned in by the Royals this year but it marked the 10th time in 11 games that Kansas City pitchers have held the opposition to three runs or less.

The Royals' five-man rotation includes Fitzmorris, Steve Busby, Paul Splittorff, Nelson Briles and Bruce Dal Canton. All but Dal Canton, who pitches his first game tonight, have at least one victory so far.

Oakland has been getting much the same kind of triumph. In six of their eight triumphs, the A's have held opponents to less than three runs. Abbott, battling to make the starting rotation, pitched a six-hitter in Sunday's opener and Hamilton and Todd combined on a seven-hitter in the nightcap.

Hamilton was rushed into action when starting pitcher Mike Norris, another youngster who has impressed, suffered a muscle pull while pitching to the second batter in the nightcap. Hamilton went six innings and struck out six while allowing six hits. Todd gave up only one hit over the last three innings.

In other AL games, New York walloped Detroit 7-1. California topped Chicago 8-4. Boston crushed Baltimore 10-2 and Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 7-4.

State Hawks Double Winners

NEW PALTZ Numbers like 5-2 and 6-2 look pretty good to New Palz State's high flying baseball team these days. Coach George Valesente's Hawks are solidly in the State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) pennant chase after a wild doubleheader victory over Potsdam in the 1975 SUNY opener here Saturday. It was no contest in the first game, when Tom Whitaker pitched and batted the Hawks to a 5-0 victory. He yielded only five hits walked three and struck out and collected three of the eight New Palz hits.

In the nightcap, the Hawks, coasting on a 13-3 lead, survived a nightmarish 11-run rally by Potsdam, to eventually win in extra innings, 15-14. Potsdam collected only four hits in that wild sixth inning. But four walks and an incredible seven errors by the Hawks accounted for the 11 runs and sent the visitors ahead 14-13.

New Palz rallied to tie the score 14-14 in the bottom of the seventh, then went on to win. The Potsdam pitchers' contributions to the New Palz victory cannot be overlooked. Three upstate hurlers combined for a total of 15 walks, several of which were translated, into runs.

Whitaker, coming on for the second time, blanked Potsdam in the top of the eighth and the Hawks won in their half when Tom McNamara walked and Whitaker singled to put runners on first and second. Joe Hernandez forced Whitaker at second, sending McNamara to third. On Omri Scott's rap to third, the Potsdam third baseman elected to go to the plate but the throw was wide and McNamara slid under the throw with the winning run.

Statistically, it was a beautiful day for the Hawks, who collected 20 hits and 20 runs in the twinbill and confirmed pre-season SUNY reports that they would be a strong contender for the title in the split season.

Whitaker, one of the best all-around players in the SUNY, collected five hits in seven trips. Larry Panella knocked in five runs with three hits.

Bob Vazquez started the nightcap for New Palz and retired during the 11-run outburst in the sixth. Calderone's effective relief pitching assured the victory and completed a very satisfying day for the Hawks. In the opener, they broke fast running up a 12-0 lead at the end of four innings.

Whitaker's first-game pitching and the refusal to fold under pressure in the second contest reflected the Hawks' balance. They can win them easily or blow a lead and then come back to win. Pretty good recipes for the big SUNY contests ahead.

Roland Aristone's Bombay Duck, who paid $6.80 and $5.40 as a 12-1 shot, earned a Derby shot as did Elmendorf's Media with a $7.60 third-place finish.

Laramie Trail, a disappointing seventh for Joseph Roebeling after winning divisions of the Bayshore and Gotham, probably will still make the Derby trip, although the rest of the field will give up Derby pretensions.

"I hope so," said one jockey of a well-beaten top choice.

Despite a nifty inside-outside routine down the stretch, Hobeau Farm's Round Stake probably earned a trip to Louisville with a victory in Saturday's $25,000 allowance sixth race at Aqueduct.

aldermen, is in the runnerup position with a gross 678 on 591 net and 87 handicap.

Harry Wiands took over the scratch singles lead with 602 on lines of 231, 202 and 169, the only 600 series rolled in the individual event on opening weekend. Runnerup at 594 are Jim Amendola and Charlie Ingalbe.

Early all-events leaders are Rich Emerick (1992) Ray Gallagher Sr. (1850); and Ray Berardi (1860) in the handicap division. Chris Schick is the net leader with a nine game aggregate of 1774, followed by Jack Ferraro with 1738 and Bob Coisson 1720.

The tournament concludes next weekend with minor events scheduled Saturday and team events Sunday.

Music . . . Very Much Alive And Doing Well at KHS

By Dorothy A. Narel

The usual image you may have about a high school orchestra — squeaky violins, loud brass section and dismal percussionists, was just NOT the case Thursday night (April 17) when Mark Baczynsky conducted the Kingston High School Orchestra in its 26th annual performance.

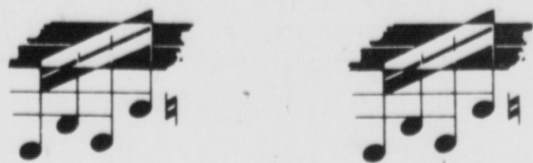

I was amazed at the quantity and quality of real talent. I can safely report that music is very much alive and doing well in the Kingston Schools Consolidated.

Baczynsky is himself a multi-talented individual and a member of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra which recently appeared in New York's Carnegie Hall. He trains the students and is responsible for their performance. The manner and style in which this orchestra played was extremely gratifying.

All students seemed to have a good perception of what the music was all about. It is evident these students are being taught and are adhering to professional standards of public performance. First of all, they were dressed for the occasion — girls in long dresses and boys in suits. It's an unusual sight these days.

Brian Steeves, music director of the school system, told LIFE "there's a definite trend back to dressing up these days." He indicated the students do this on their own and without "coaching."

Another plus, the students behaved professionally on stage — even during long pauses when they were not performing. I have seen established musicians act with far less acceptable manners. I applaud the students and their teachers.

As far as orchestral structure is concerned, the group had balance and while it is not ultra-large in numbers, there was an overall quality that was tasteful, and solid and musically correct. If is LIFE's understanding that Poughkeepsie and Newburgh do not have as large a group and concerts done in combination with the two other cities are "very beneficial."

Several students, featured as soloists, deserve kudos. One of them is Cheryl Goodheim, flautist, who performed Marcello's "Sonata No. 2 in D-Minor." Miss Goodheim's performance was smooth and lyrical. She understands the instrument and plays well. Miss Goodheim is one of several students planning to continue her education at the University of Syracuse.

Diana Baker, pianist, talented in her own right, provided the proper background for the flute solo.

First chair violinist Laurie Schaller, with Miss Baker at the piano, performed the demanding Handel's "Sonata No. 4 in D." The soloist has a fine sense of form and gave the performance all its needed tone-colors and effects. LIFE learned that Miss Schaller recently appeared as soloist with the All-County Choral Concert at UCCC on March 22. She has also made several appearances in the area.

Florence Larios, principal pianist for the orchestra, played the difficult jazz piano concert "Rhapsody in Blue." Miss Larios handled the jazz syncopations and "blues" melody with keyboard vitality giving the Gershwin work its needed motion, form and interpretation. Now a senior, LIFE understands Miss Larios has been accepted thus far by no less than four colleges. She seems to be favoring one in Florida at this point where she would like to continue her education in music and theatre-arts.

I would also like to draw particular attention to the percussion section handled by Brian Tutt and Susan Braen. Both did an exceptional job on the kettle drums with Miss Braen doubling up on the xylophones. Marc Sonnenberg also performed well in the timpani section.

An unusual treat was the appearance of a KHS String Quartet. Playing the Rondo from "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," by Mozart, were Laurie Schaller and Jill Brown, violins; Ellen Levine, viola and Elyssa Johanson, cello. They gave a very fine performance.

Other selections by the orchestra included: Schubert's "Rosamunde Overture;" Mendelssohn's "March from Athalia;" "Trumpet Tune and Air" by Purcell; "Chorale-Fugue" by Bach; and "Prologue, Hymn and Dance," by Holosovsky.

In the second half of the program, the students played "Two Sketches for Orchestra," by Grundman; "Cortege," by Johnson; Selections from "Brigadoon," by Loewe; Selections from "The King and I;" and the concluding number by Matěsky, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

Performing with the orchestra were: Violins — Laurie Schaller, concertmistress; Jill Brown; Sue Naccarato, Betty LaRusso, Joan Kearney, Lorraine Grubiak, Joe Hans, Pamela Nichols, Debbie Mandic, Lynne LaLima, Joanne Schatzel, Denise Deyo, Sue Glazer, Renee Brown, Carole Campbell and advanced M/J students Kathy Richter, Kathy Naccarato and Kristine Clauber.

Violas — Ellen Levine, Dirk Decker, Stacy Sanchez and Sue Braen.

Cellos — Edmond Fabbie, Elyssa Johanson and Andra Bushnell.

String Bass — Scott Brandenburg and Paul Jerome; Flutes — Laura Johnson, Cheryl Goodheim, Debbie Grimm and Lori Wolven; Oboes — Eileen Yuran and Katie LaRusso; Clarinets — Jim Beesley, Diana Baker, Teri Wright and Michael Mine; Horns — Steve Tutt, Jim Sillik, Victor Nippert and Norman Rachmilowicz;

Classic Triangle: Boss + Husband = Zero

DEAR ABBY: I have no one to talk to, so I am going to cry on your shoulder, if you'll let me.

It's an old story. An affair that never should have started. Nine years ago I fell in love with my boss. (We were both married). I had always been a good wife and mother, and had a religious background, but I wasn't strong enough to resist this man.

After eight years of deceiving my husband, I filed for a divorce and told my husband everything. My lover told me that he would do the same. Well, you know the rest. He never did. So now I am divorced, and I don't have my husband or my lover.

I have prayed to God to help me stop loving this married man because now I know that he will never leave his wife and family.

Will I ever get over this, Abby? I desperately need some encouragement. Maybe this letter will keep some other woman from making the same mistake that I did.

WEAK AND FOOLISH
DEAR WEAK: Yes, you will get over it, but not until you stop dwelling on the past and blaming yourself for your "foolishness" and weakness.

There is a lesson to be learned here: "Don't discard the old kettle until you're sure the new one holds water."

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to the woman who was so deeply in debt was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough.

We were also in debt over our heads. Then we heard about Consumer Credit Counseling Service, which turned out to be the answer to our prayers.

It is a non-profit agency that will figure your wages and debts, and contact all your creditors who usually are willing to cut your payments down to where you can handle them. Then every payday, you pay the Consumer Credit people a set amount and THEY pay off your bills. That way you don't have any creditors hounding you, and you keep your self-respect.

Someone helped me by telling me about Consumer Credit; now it's my turn to help others.

GRATEFUL IN OREGON
DEAR GRATEFUL: Apparently, Consumer Credit Counseling has been a good friend to many because yours was one of many letters I received recommending it. Thanks for writing. I'll spread the word.

DEAR ABBY: Re the college student who wouldn't shower regularly—to the displeasure of those who had to live with him. In 1951, during basic training, my company commander told me of a soldier who had not bathed in 13 weeks. (This included two weeks of bivouac!) He asked me to see to it that that smelly soldier got a daily shower—or else.

I got five of the strongest men I could find, and we approached this unwashed soldier and told him that if he didn't get into a shower, we would get him into one. He refused, so we stripped him and carried him bodily into the shower. The others held him while I proceeded to scrub him with a G.I. scrub brush. Halfway through the bath he pleaded for mercy and promised to finish the rest himself. He did. And after that, he was Mr. Clean.

Harsh? Perhaps. But it served a purpose.

BIRMINGHAM LAWYER
DEAR LAWYER: Now that's what I call a reasonable man under the circumstances.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange following the resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 18.93 points last week, was ahead 0.39 at 808.82 shortly after the opening bell. The closely watched average suffered its first loss in nine sessions Friday, falling 11.03 points.

Advances led declines, 150 to 122, among the more than 382 issues crossing the tape.

Before the market opened, President Thieu announced his resignation in the hopes it will avert a military takeover of Saigon by the North Vietnamese and lead to a political settlement of the Vietnam war. In a speech on national television, Thieu blamed South Vietnam's military defeats on U.S. failure to honor former President Richard M. Nixon's written promises of aid.

IRS Hid Nixon Returns

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — Officials of the Internal Revenue Service hid the tax returns of former President Richard M. Nixon when evidence surfaced in late 1973 that he had underpaid his taxes, according to a former IRS service auditor.

Former auditor Ralph F. LaCrosse said in a copyrighted story in the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin that IRS officials ordered Nixon's name removed from agency indexes. He said he participated in a process of "burning off" Nixon's name from micro-filmed indexes, making it impossible for anyone within the IRS to locate the former President's tax returns.

LaCrosse said the order from Washington to "burn off" Nixon's name from the indexes was unprecedented, but the command was followed in the IRS Mid-Atlantic regional headquarters in Philadelphia without hesitation.

The Bulletin quoted LaCrosse, who retired last June on a medical disability, and "other IRS sources" as saying that Nixon's name was also removed from indexes in Martinsburg, W.Va., where IRS's national computer center is based.

IRS officials admitted removing Nixon's name but said it was done for security reasons, according to the Bulletin.

Fire Probe

KINGSTON A fire early last Friday at the Stony Run Apartments which extensively damaged Building No. 4 was apparently started by a cigarette in a closet of a second floor apartment, fire officials said today.

According to firemen, the closet in the apartment of Marvin Skolnik also contained a small quantity of gunpowder, used by Skolnik to load his own ammunition. "It was probably fortunate it started in that closet," said Kingston Fire Chief William J. Schreiber, who explained that the explosion of the gun powder awakened the occupants of the building.

Saugerties Town Police said the truck was operated by Erwin Daniel, 42, of Saugerties. No tickets were issued.

'Return Our Money'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Irv Elkins, president of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., says the milk cooperative wants back $10,000 of the cash used as evidence in the bribery trial of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr.

Connally was acquitted Thursday on charges of accepting $10,000 in cash from a former AMPI lobbyist, Jake Jacobsen, as a payoff for getting former President Nixon to increase the federal price support for raw milk.

"We would like the money returned," Elkins told UPI in an telephone interview from Amery, Wis., Saturday. An AMPI lawyer in San Antonio, Tex., confirmed he has asked Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Jon A. Sale for the money. There was no immediate response.

During the trial, the prosecutors produced two separate batches of cash, each containing $10,000.

Jacobsen said Connally gave him those packages on two different occasions in late 1973 as part of a scheme to cover up the alleged bribe by returning it. Jacobsen said Connally produced the second $10,000 after the first batch was found to be traceable.

Edward Bennett Williams, Connally's lawyer, said Jacobsen kept the money.

Bob A. Lilly, a former AMPI counsel, testified that he obtained $10,000 in 1971 for Jacobsen to give Connally for political contributions. Elkins said this is the grounds for the AMPI claim.

No one is sure what will happen to the other $10,000 introduced at the trial. An AMPI lawyer said Jacobsen's attorney reported his client was not interested. A source close to the prosecution said it may wind up in the Treasury. AMPI, the nation's largest milk cooperative with 40,000 members, pleaded guilty last August to six counts of conspiracy and illegal campaign contributions totaling $360,000 to various politicians. It was fined $35,000.

Jacobsen pleaded guilty last August to one count of making an illegal payment to a public official, whom he identified during the trial as Connally. The government dropped savings and loan charges against him in Texas in exchange for his guilty plea and his testimony.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans is considering whether to permit the Texas charges to be dropped. A spokesman for the prosecutors said Jacobsen's plea will stand and no other charges will be filed.

18 Bodies Found In Hull of Boat

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — Salvage crews raised the burned-out hull of a Dutch excursion boat from the bottom of the Rhine River today and found 18 badly burned bodies inside.

The crews, working through thick fog from floating cranes, found the bodies aboard the 270-ton Princess Irene, Dutch Consul Herman Meerloo said.

A fire swept through the boat early Saturday morning as the more than 100 passengers and crew slept. An estimated 18 persons, many of them disabled and elderly, were trapped and believed killed. A 19th victim died on the way to a hospital.

District government chief Guenter Heidecke termed the tragedy "the worst River Rhine traffic accident in history."

A water police spokesman said salvage crews aboard floating cranes would try to raise the vessel early this morning at the Adenauer Pier, where it was moored when flames broke out.

A Cologne city government spokesman said "as far as we could determine from the passenger lists, 18 persons were trapped in the boat and are presumed dead."

But the spokesman said the definite death toll would be known only after recovery of the bodies.

City officials said the state prosecutor's office has taken over investigation of the disaster. They could neither confirm nor deny reports that authorities had taken a blood test from Jan Tillema, the captain of the German-built river cruiser.

In Bonn, the Federal Transport Ministry said a technical supervisory board would inspect the wreck to determine whether safety devices aboard the Irene had been up to inland waterway navigational standards.

A group of at least 32 elderly disabled passengers, about 20 of them in wheel chairs, were among the passengers taking a one-week Rhine excursion.

A Good Job Skill Can Make All the Difference

ARMY RESERVE

It can be tough in the Kingston area unless you have a good civilian skill. The Army Reserve is looking for hundreds of new recruits to join the thousands of young men & women learning good civilian job skills... and many of them we teach from scratch.

You can earn an extra $45 to $75 a month and keep your present job while training part-time for only 16 hours a month & 15 days annually.

To see if you qualify, the Army Reserve will give you an extensive battery of aptitude tests without obligation or cost and we'll let you know how well you did right away. We'll tell you what type of training you qualified for in the Kingston area.

Don't hesitate! Call a U.S. Army Reserve Center between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at (914) 331-4424

Or mail this coupon and a local Army Reservist will contact you with details.

I'd like more information about the Army Reserve without obligation.

Win at Bridge

Be Careful In Early Play

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Jim: "I watched a young,
 up-and-coming good bridge player chuck the defense of today's hand. He signalled with his ten of spades at trick
 one. Declarer let West's queen hold the trick. West didn't have a second spade to lead and declarer had time to set up dummy's diamonds and secure ten tricks."

Oswald: "I'm sure he was young, but I can't go for that
 up-and-coming good bridge player designation. Didn't he see that it was up to him to put his king of spades right on his partner's queen?"

Jim: "I didn't see it. The moment his partner shifted to a club, he turned to me and said, 'I guess you think I'm a trifle worse than a normal half-wit.'"

Oswald: "If he saw it himself and was ready to blame himself that quickly, there is plenty of hope for him. Young players as well as some old players tend to play carelessly.
 If this hand teaches him to be particularly careful in the early play there is plenty of hope for him to get into the expert class."

Jim: "I think he will. I remember you taught me that the way to improve was to be as hard on myself as possible."

Irate Consumers Continue C-H Protest

SAUGERTIES
Irate Consumers of Ulster County (ICUC) has urged all customers of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. to continue to withhold the fuel adjustment charge portion of their monthly utility bills, "as a continuing protest against the flagrant failure of the Public Service Commission to protect the public interest."

According to Jack Walter, chairman of the Executive board of ICUC, the fuel adjustment charge, which once was included as a separate item on each monthly utility bill, has now been included in the total charge.

ICUC maintains that the fuel adjustment charge, as its name implies, is supposed to go either up or down in proportion to the price utility companies must pay for the fuel oil. But the decision by the Public Service Commission (PSC) to include an arbitrary fuel adjustment charge of .012 cents per kilowatt hour into the permanent rate increase structure violates the intent of the charge. "There were never public hearings on this matter," said Walter, "consequently, our challenge of the legality of the fuel adjustment charge without public hearings has been strengthened."

In July, 1974, ICUC submitted petitions containing 980 signatures to the PSC asking that public hearings be held before fuel adjustment charges are added to Central Hudson's electric bills. The PSC denied the request.

ICUC now intends to resume its fight against Central Hudson as the PSC through the courts. An earlier court suit was held in abeyance pending the outcome of the appeal to the PSC.

In the meantime, ICUC is urging customers to continue to withhold the fuel adjustment charge from their monthly payments to Central Hudson. Since the charge is no longer included separately on the bill, Walter suggested that customers simply deduct one-third from their utility bill, and mail only the remaining two-thirds to Central Hudson.

PBA Hits Request

ALBANY
The Police Benevolent Association (PBA) of the New York State Police has strongly criticized Governor Hugh Carey's request for a study into the need and use of the new .357 magnum revolver now being carried by State Police.

Patrick J. Carroll, PBA president, said no specific reason was given for the inquiry and that PBA considers such action unwarranted and a complete waste of the taxpayers' money.

The .357 magnum originally was requested during PBA negotiations with the state in 1971. "A great deal of thought and investigation went into the use of the .357 before it was requested," Carroll said. "At that time we were convinced, as we are now, that it is the best possible weapon to be carried by State Police, based on all facts available."

The state authorized a study into the weapon which began shortly after negotiations and culminated in its authorization in late 1974, Carroll noted. "After an exhaustive three year study, why does Governor Carey want another one?" he asked. "In fact, we wouldn't even call this a study, but rather an investigation, which leaves a bad taste in our mouths."

Carroll said PBA would like answers about the origin and need for such an investigation and the expertise and qualifications of the Division of Criminal Justice Services which will conduct the study.

"The PBA executive board feels that in a time of fiscal crises, to initiate a senseless investigation into a previously investigated and authorized matter would be a waste of the taxpayers' money. Let the Governor turn his attention to some of the important matters confronting the state at this time and stay away from

Veto Urged

WASHINGTON, D. C.
Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) has urged Governor Hugh Carey to veto a Port Authority proposal to increase tolls on bridges and tunnels leading into New York City.

"This unjustified increase would severely burden commuters who must already spend a large portion of their weekly salaries for transportation and parking," Gilman said. "I urge Gov. Carey to take into account the region's transportation needs and commuter needs before unnecessarily adding to the burdens of our commuters. Alternative mass transportation in southeastern New York is inadequate."

Gilman called on the state administration to closely examine the profits of the Port Authority to "determine if these excessive increases are justifiable."
